

Millicorp and ConsCallHome Gives the Gift of Talk This Holiday Season

Fort Myers, Florida (December 9th 2011), Millicorp announced today, their service product ConsCallHome is sharing the gift of talk this holiday season. The team at ConsCallHome is saying thank you to all of their loyal subscribers this year by giving their members the opportunity to talk up to 15 minutes with their incarcerated loved one at no charge on Christmas Day. This promotion is completely free and transparent to all ConsCallHome customers. All they must do is simply receive calls from their incarcerated friends and loved ones on Christmas day and Millicorp will make certain that they receive credit for up to 15 minutes of calls.

The core beliefs of ConsCallHome are to offer a safe and secure service year round that allows thousands of families to talk affordably while their loved one is incarcerated. This becomes even more important during the holiday season as shown in numerous studies reporting there is an increase in anxiety due to separation on both the family and the inmate. ConsCallHome understands the value of familial communication and it has become customary internally to adjust the billing cycle of their subscribers to ensure their telephone communications are not interrupted on December 25th. This practice has been so well received they make it a custom to adjust the billing cycle during all major holidays to enable their customers to speak with their loved ones on these important days.

Millicorp President and CEO Timothy Meade said “we understand the value of family and the importance of staying in contact with loved ones particularly during the holidays, which is why we are making it a standard practice to give each of our subscribers a free 15 minutes of phone time to use on December 25th to stay in touch with loved ones. We know how difficult it is for families to be separated during the holidays and the feelings of loss and anxiety increases during this time so we feel it is important to give something back. This small gift is not only a thank you to our subscribers, but to the community as well, with the hope that it may reduce stress on the families and reduce recidivism in the long run. We would like to extend our best wishes to the friends and families we serve all year.”
